CENTS.

- 1113 1793 Flowing hair; rev., United States of America; edge has vine and bars; weakly struck, though not much worn; a desirable coin.
- 1114 1794 Reverse from a broken die; fine for the date.
- 1115 1794 Different die; corroded, but not much circulated.
- 1116 1794 Thick planchet, lettered edge; rev., "One Cent" high in the wreath; almost fine.
- 1117 1796 Pillet head; fair for date, scarce.
- 1118 1797 Very fine indeed, almost uncirculated.
- 1119 1797 Dark color; condition about like the last.
- 1120 1798 Very fine indeed, but a trifle worn.
- 1121 1798 Different die; not quite so good.
- 1122 1799 Very fine indeed for this date. It is so much the fashion to question the genuineness of every cent of 1799 offered for sale, that although I feel confident that this is genuine, I will not guarantee it against the opinion of others. The only objection I can perceive to it, is that the date is much better than usual.

- 1123 1800 over 1799 Very good, almost fine.
 1124 1801 A weak impression, but scarcely touched by circulation: rare in this condition.
 1125 1801 Reverse $\frac{1}{000}$: good, scarce.
